

To whom it may concern:

I am concerned. Very much so with the plans to abolish restrictions on the nature of cross-ownership in media outlet companies. The information I receive from domestic news sources too perverted by sponsorship, flak, and opinions already.

Americans need to be free to make some decisions about current events for themselves, without the hand of corporate america involved. The measures in discussion currently seek to undermine this.